SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 23, 1910

HAILS HIM AS CAESAR

The only discordant note heard from the Paris press in its comment upon Mr. Roosevelt's visit comes from the ultra-clerical papers like the Gil Blas, which openly derides the American guest as a charlatan.

Fredrick Messon, who is now on the Mr. Roosevelt's colleagues in the French institute and notorious for his ultra-Catholic and royalistic views written under the name, "Hail, Caesar," publishes a remarkable attack in which he paints Mr. Roosevelt as a demagogue who, with all the skill of a Barnum, is arranging for his reappearance upon the American stage.

After describing American democracy as marching between plutocracy and demagoguery the writer asks if it is possible that the former president intends to plunge again into the fight which has already provoked a crash of credit bankruptcy in the United States, and in which anarchy under cover of demagoguery may precipitate bloodshed, pillage and arson in industrial centers. Messon adds:

American democracy needs a conciliator. Whatever his title may be, whether it is president, protector or even emperor, it is only by an extra-constitutional concentration of legislative and executive powers that such a conciliator can fulfill his task. The American people, without exactly knowing that the trouble is what the remedy is to be, will acclaim the man who will plunge a red-hot iron into the wound. It will follow such a man. American imperialism will end, sooner or later, in Caesarism. The United States of America have found their Caesar. He may not please us Latin. It is enough that he pleases his people.
